SO YOU THINK YOU CAN SPEAK!

Toronto, Ontario – Tuesday, September 15, 2009 –

Speakers Gold, a Toronto-based bureau, is giving aspiring public speakers a chance to show off their skills in this one-of-a-kind contest.

With the recent popularity of televised talent competitions it is no surprise one of Canada's bureaus is quickly following suit. Speakers across Canada will compete for a chance to win representation by industry expert, bureau owner and author, Cathleen Fillmore.

"We've seen a tremendous amount of interest in this annual event, growing from just a few participants to a nation-wide contest," says Ms. Fillmore.

The final event where the finalists will be presenting will be held at The King Edward Hotel in downtown Toronto on October 22nd from 6:30-9:00 p.m.

"The audience will be the judge of real Canadian speaking talent," notes Ms. Fillmore. "Highlighting new talent with the art of public and motivational speaking is a definite asset in today's economy. People like well delivered, positive stories."

The competition, open to all Canadians began with auditions from which 12 finalists were selected.
